

ABSTRACT

A satellite life extension spacecraft, comprising a mechanical implement adapted for connection to a parent spacecraft, a first and second boom, a first thruster pod and a second thruster pod attached to the first and second boom, the first pod positioned
5 relative to the second pod such that the center of mass of a parent/child spacecraft can be determined relative to the first and second pod.